A Special Program on Genealogical Research

Find-A-Grave is a resource for finding the final resting place of family, friends, and even famous people. There are now over 70 million graves listed on Find-A-Grave. It has three main purposes: (1) a graves registration website, (2) a memorialization/remembrance site, and (3) a genealogical resource.

Ms. Dash will speak of her involvement in Find-A-Grave, experiences photographing in graveyards, what information can be found on the website, how to photograph gravestones, and how we can help this most useful project.

Deborah Dash is a very active Find-A-Grave volunteer. She has added over 44,000 memorials and over 66,000 photographs to the website. She finds cemeteries to be peaceful, historic places and she enjoys reading the inscriptions (the older the better). She is also a site administrator.
