Where There's a Will: Probate Records Can Prove Family Connections

Records created when a person dies can be very useful for genealogists, as they often describe family relationships, but there are pitfalls too. This class will discuss all estate records and also touch on guardianship records.

Janice M. Sellers is a professional genealogist who specializes in Jewish and newspaper research. She is the publicity director for the San Francisco Bay Area Jewish Genealogical Society and the editor of three genealogy journals. She is also a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists, the Genealogical Speakers Guild, the California Genealogical Society, and the African-American Genealogical Society of Northern California, among others. She has been on the staff of the Oakland FamilySearch Library since 2000.
