A Special Program on Genealogical Research

Ms. Driver will give an overview of the pioneer Driver, Cockerton, and related families (including the Sweets) of Irvington and Livermore and then use story details to illustrate how she was able to discover more information on these families. She will discuss some of the challenges she encountered in putting it all together in book form. Walt will then share his experiences using book templates and the steps required to get the book published. This is a meeting you will not want to miss if you have ever thought about publishing a family history.
