Maps Hold Clues to Your Family History

Learning about the places your ancestors called home is an important part of family history. Maps can point the way, as they provide a wealth of information to help you learn about the places your ancestors lived and how the physical surroundings affected their lives.

Genealogist and map enthusiast, Teresa Costa Fraser will discuss some of the popular types of maps that can be used to trace your family's history, including topographic maps, fire insurance maps, road maps, historical maps, township plat maps, cemetery maps, pictorial maps and even battlefield maps. She will also discuss the value of each type of map and how to locate and access them. Travel back in time with Teresa as she shares lots of map examples from her own research of the places her ancestors lived, including the Azores, Virginia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Washington and California.
