Researching Your Old House

Using Items available within the Livermore Heritage Guild's collections, Loretta Kaskey will demonstrate a specific block's development, including the family that settled there.

Loretta moved to California in 1988 to work at Lockheed and is still an engineer in the aerospace industry, currently employed by SSL. She has been an active member of the Livermore Heritage Guild since 2002 when she and her husband Jeff bought their "old house" on Livermore's South Side.

Loretta is a Livermore Heritage Guild researcher, focusing on property research for the past eight years. She served on the Historic Preservation Commission and now serves on the Livermore City's Planning Commission.
