TimeShaker

Bill Levesque is the President of TimeShaker, a company devoted to helping people and organizations capture their past. He works with museums, schools and genealogy groups. He has also been actively capturing his family's past for several years. He now has a much better understanding of the blind date where his mom and dad met in 1955.

The stories of our past did not happen by themselves. They are connected to family, friends, culture and historical events. And often our stories are not captured to pass on to our children. Our photos without context are just images.

TimeShaker provides a way to capture our stories and photos and see them within the context of history. What music was popular when the photo of my aunt was taken? What were news events of the day? What was her brother doing at that time? All of these questions are easy to see with TimeShaker.

Bill Levesque will demonstrate this new life capture solution.
